PREFACE

All of the graphics included within this report are from mission [REDACTED]. A comparative analysis of this mission with both preceding and succeeding missions is established within the text of the report. All of the 3 X 4 inch photographs are, with few exceptions, 9X enlargements. The numerical annotations on Figure 2 are keyed to the identical number for each detailed enlargement. All measurements were compiled by the CIA/IAD project analyst. A more detailed analysis of equipment was precluded by film resolution.

NOTE: The BE/TDI lists the Hai-Feng Training and Maneuver Area at 23 01N-115 23E [REDACTED]

HAI-FENG AAA TRAINING AREA
23 05N-115 25E

The SW edge of the Hai-Feng AAA Training Area begins approximately 3 nm NE of Hai-Feng. The entire training area extends NE from this point for a distance of approximately 8 nm. AAA training sites are located along either side of this imaginary line. A large unoccupied AAA training area is located immediately to the north of the large reservoir (See Figure 2).

Occupied AAA sites and support areas are annotated on Figure 2 with numbers and letters, unoccupied AAA sites by an asterisk, and searchlight positions by a star.

The following occupied areas are annotated on Figures 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6.

ITEM

1. A four-gun occupied probable 57/85 mm AAA site (three-gun positions occupied).

- 19 Probable tents
- 1 Probable "Firecan" radar
- 10 Trucks (6 not on graphic) - see arrow
- 1 Searchlight position (not shown on graphic)

2. One four-gun unoccupied and one four-gun occupied probable 57/85 mm AAA site (3 guns in occupied site).

- 9 Probable tents
- 1 Probable radar van
- 5 Trucks (see arrow)

3. A four-gun probable 57/85 mm AAA site (3 positions occupied)

- 11 Probable tents
- 1 Possible radar van
- 5 Trucks (see arrow)

A. Support Area (See Figure 2 for relationship to unoccupied sites).

In  this area was active--in November the area appears to be abandoned.

B. Support Area--same status as "A."

C. Support Area--same status as "A."

D. Support Area

This area contains one large "C" shaped building, one "I" shaped building, 6 probable tents, and 5 probable tents, and 5 probable trucks (see arrow).

E. Possible Support Area

This area is located adjacent to AAA Site No. 12 (Figure 3) and contains 10 barracks type buildings and 6 storage/support type buildings.

F. Probable Support Area

This area is located near AAA Site No. 20 (Figure 4). A portion of area "G" is also visible in the photo. This area contains approximately 25 connected buildings, several smaller tents/buildings, and 5 trucks (see arrow).

G. Support Area

Area is located near AAA Site No. 20 and Area "F." The area contains approximately 40 probable tents, 5 buildings, a searchlight position, and 3 trucks (see arrow).

CIA IMAGERY ANALYSIS DIVISION

H. Probable Support Area

This area is located approximately 3 km east of Hai-Feng and contains approximately 60 buildings (50 of these are possible barracks) and a probable small arms firing range.

J. Support Area

Area contains approximately 75 probable tents and several unoccupied AAA sites.

K. Probable Support Area

This area contains 12 connected barracks type buildings and several small storage/support type sheds.

L. Probable Support Area

25X1

25X1

Area contains 11 possible barracks and 6 probable vehicle revettments (see arrow).

Comparative photographic coverage from [redacted]

25X1

[redacted] indicates that all but 3 of the 25 unoccupied sites in the immediate vicinity of Areas "A," "B," and "C," (Figure 2) were previously occupied. These sites, including the support area appear to be abandoned on photography of [redacted] Abandonment of AAA training activity on the NE side of the reservoir occurred between [redacted]

25X1

[redacted] The equipment from these abandoned sites does not appear to have been relocated in the area of the reservoir. Most of the sites on the south side of the reservoir were occupied before abandonment of the NE sites.

25X1

Photography [redacted] shows a slight decrease in activity at some sites and an increase at others in comparison to [redacted] photography. The overall status of the area remains relatively unchanged in the number of active (containing guns) sites during this time period.

25X1

Excellent photography of [redacted] and fair photography of [redacted] [redacted] shows only 4 occupied AAA sites and one probable radar site in the Hai-Feng AAA Training Area. This indicates that this change in activity occurred between [redacted] The 4 active sites are numbers 8, 17, 18, and 19. The probable radar site is located immediately ENE of site number 8.
